Made on graceful lines with full skirt and long bodice, it was enhanced by the veil of soft tulle, caught to the head with a coronet of large blossoms and seed pearls, fell softly about her shoulders and into a slight train. Features of the dress were a row of tiny satin covered buttons sewn to the bodice and the lace work and sleeves made full at the shoulder and tapering closely to the elbow and arm. Her long, ornate, old fashioned money of sweetheart roses and carnations, added a note of color to the pretty white dress, but made a frame for the dark beauty of the bride.

The Inquiring
Reporter

In Calcutta, India, radios and gramophones of the type that are installed in automobiles have been banned. The traffic board of the Indian city believes that the attention of motorists is liable to be distracted from the road by the strains of music emitted by the music boxes.

ROBERT GRIFFITH, farmer and motorist:

I don't think the car radio diverts the attention of the driver. That Bulletin's Inquiring Reporter has never read nor heard of any accidents involving automobiles being attributed to music from a car radio, but he decided to sound up the opinions of a few citizens, and here they are:

MURRAY CHARLERS, driver:

Car radios should be installed to that they will not operate while the car is in motion. This would not detract from the radio as the driver is listening to the radio if he is vacillating at the wheel or at other reports. And he would certainly could not be accused of listening to the radio if he were ever involved in a smash-up.

JIMMY MORRIS, clerk:

I don't think a driver goes crazy when he is listening to the radio. That's a good thing, doesn't it? A driver who is liable to be distracted by the radio is liable to be distracted by anything. That type of driver should be kept off the road under any circumstances.

ERIC KESNER, salesman:

I think it's a lot of baloney. Next thing you know, you'll be talking in a car. That would be just as reasonable as banning the radio. It's the driver who is talking to the radio that it doesn't attempt to indulge in back-seat driving.

Prowler Pokes Profitable Paw In Pants Pocket

The once favorite practice of peering one's trousers under the mattress every night may have been found to be profitable. A Montreal man, 10608 83 street, wishes he had his trousers one of these nights. He found them empty. He had been under the mattress, in all probability he had stolen the $57 that someone took out of them while they were hanging over a chair by his bed in his room.

C.O.T.C. Breaks All Records In Tests—O.C. Congratulated

Exceeding their previous record established in 1935 by five and breaking all records for any Canadian Officers Training Corps unit in Canada at any time, the University of Alberta contingent of the C.O.T.C. has carried off top honors in the War Office examinations for this year, results of which have just been announced.

One hundred and twenty candidates were successful in obtaining certificates, either for the rank of Captain or for the rank of Major, in the various arms of the service in which instruction was given, and Lieut. Col. E. H. Strickland, commanding, is being widely congratulated for his success.

HIGH PERCENTAGE

Of the certificates granted 25 are for captainties, which is a high percentage. The other 95 are for majors, which will be commissioned in either the Canadian militia or regular forces.

In addition to the 120 candidates who were successful in obtaining their certificates by successful completion of the examination, the University of Alberta C.O.T.C. contingent has been steadily taking top honors for some years past, and this year's success is a further proof of the high standard of instruction which is being given.

MARKED BY EXAMINERS

The examinations which were given on this occasion were given out and marked by British War Office experts and covered artillery, artillery engineering, machine gun, signaling, infantry, engineering and medical corps.

TAX PROPOSAL

Protests Union's Plan For Provincial Levy To Aid Education

Opposition to the proposal that the provincial government impose a two per cent. sales tax to provide additional funds for education made by the Union of Municipalities was vigorously opposed by delegates to the Edmonton Trades and Labor Council at its meeting Monday at the Labor hall.

A resolution, passed unanimously, will be sent to the city council seeking the provincial government in opposing this tax. Delegates pointed out that such tax would be levied on the city to provide additional funds for education, and that the city would be required to pay the tax on the city's own property.

EDMUND HARDY

of the family of the Toronto Conservatory of Music and gifted organist and choirman, who has arrived in the city to conduct examinations for the Conservatory. He is accompanied by the Misses Spinks, concert master of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra.

FEDERAL INCREASE

The council suggested by resolution, which will be forwarded to the Trades and Labor Council for necessary action, that the federal government be asked to increase grants to the provinces for educational purposes.

EDUCATION

This resolution is a request that the federal government provide funds for a considerable increase in the number of scholarships to Canadian universities, with the result that the federal government would be asked to increase grants to the provinces for educational purposes.

RENEWED DEMAND for the federal government immediately action be taken to increase grants to the provinces for educational purposes, and also to abolish the two-cent tax on sugar.

That at least is what Archie thought was being done with the money which he was working on for his wife, Nancy, had other ideas.

This is borne out by the fact that Archie thought a supreme court injunction against his wife and an Edmonton bank to retain his wife for using any more of the $600 which Archie suggests is deposited in the bank in his wife's name.

The difference between the wife and husband arose when the latter returned home for his usual summer vacation on June 15 and found that his wife had cashed out the $600 and also the handling of same. His wife cut short the argument by the simple expedient of packing her bag and returning to her home.

Archie got his injunction from the court, and his wife started action against him to recover the money. He bases his claim on the principle that the money was sent his wife in trust for him, or in the alternative for the common weal of the family.

SLEEP Sleep renews our zest for life. In other words, we get fooled eight out of every 24 hours. The eyelids droop, the pulse slows, the spirit relaxes. Such is sleep and too many drinks too fast. In the morning one rises from his bed, eager-eyed to meet the day. But this introduction gets very interesting after the first few thousands of times.

Answer: Contrary to common belief, sap does not rise in spring. There is an increased circulation of tree liquids, and more is found in the outside cell zones than in winter, but the rise and fall with the seasons is unfounded.
